David,

Here is the explanatory write-up for YOR8-2000-0738 "Method and Apparatus for Independent Filtering of E-Commerce Transactions". It was created in Word 2000 so I'm also mailing you hard-copy since I assume printing might cause you undue grief. I'm putting the hardcopy in internal mail to you tonight. This document has a technical description followed by potential business processes.

Subject: Draft Patent Application

John-

Attached is the draft of the e-commerce filter application. Please review with your coinventors and get back to me with your comments and corrections. Make sure the independent claims are not drafted too broadly based on the prior art that you may be aware of. I will also need a copy of any relevant prior art. When you return the draft also provide further details on the administrative tool 20 (is this a commercially available product?), as well as names of suitable e-commerce programs that may be found in a typical system. Feel free to contact me should there be any questions or comments.

Best regards,

Harry

Dear John:

Enclosed is a second draft of the patent application for this invention disclosure. Please review the draft with your co-inventors and get back to me with any further comments. I have highlighted some of the larger insertions. Please feel free to give me a call should you wish to discuss the description or the claims. I will also need the residence address and citizenship for each inventor.

Re: Your Ref. No. YOR920000719US1
My Ref. No. 909.0040 USU
"SYSTEM AND APPARATUS FOR INDEPENDENT FILTERING OF E-COMMERCE TRANSACTIONS"

Dear John:

Enclosed is a finalized patent application that is ready for your review. The application incorporates the revisions to the second draft application. Please carefully review this application with your co-inventors to insure that it accurately describes your invention, and to verify that the claims are not drafted so broadly as to read on any conventional systems of which you may be aware. If you are satisfied with the application, then also review and execute the enclosed Declaration and the Assignment of all rights to IBM. The Taiwan Oath and Assignment should also be reviewed and executed. Return the executed papers to me for filing in the U.S. Patent Office. If any changes are made to the application, each inventor must initial and date each change in the margin. Let me know if a major change is required, and I will send you replacement pages(s). If an inventor makes a change to the formal papers, such as correcting an address, then only that inventor need initial and date the change.

We have a continuing duty of disclosure to bring to the Examiner's attention any prior art that may be deemed material or pertinent to the claimed invention. Send me a copy of any prior art of which you may be aware of now, or of which you may become aware after the application is filed. Feel free to contact me with any questions.

Sincerely,

OHLANDT, GREELEY, RUGGIERO & PERLE, L.L.P.
